

El Instituto

Institute of Latina/o, Caribbean, and Latin American Studies

“Toxic Ivory Towers: The Health Consequences of Work Stress on the Health of Underrepresented Minority Faculty”

Thursday

April 19, 2018

12:30

–

2:00 pm

Lunch served

A Talk by

Ruth Zambrana

Professor, Women’s Studies/Director, Consortium on Race, Gender and Ethnicity/Adjunct Professor, Family Medicine
University of Maryland, Baltimore – School of Medicine

Zambrana’s scholarship applies a critical intersectional lens to structural inequality and racial, Hispanic ethnicity, and gender inequities in population health and higher education trajectories.

She is the recipient of numerous awards, the most recent from the Annie E. Casey Foundation, Expanding the Bench program initiative, which aims to translate new findings on URM faculty barriers and challenges into higher education policies to enhance retention and promotion.

PRLACC

Student Union
4th floor

Sponsored by:

El Instituto: Institute of Latina/o, Caribbean, and Latin American Studies
Neag Department of Educational Leadership
Puerto Rican and Latin American Cultural Center (PRLACC)
Sociology Department

If you require special accommodations, please contact elinstituto@uconn.edu